

Michael Isenring

Project Leader

M.Sc. in Geography, specialising in Human & Economic Geography
CAS in Corporate Finance

Michael Isenring has been working at Hanser Consulting AG since 2009

His main areas of activity lie in acting as consultant to public administrations and institutions on business, energy policy and regional economic issues. Michael Isenring also focuses on the issue of how to optimise the organisation and procedures in the public sector. In addition, within the Graubünden Business Forum he is closely involved in the issue of location policy for the Canton of Graubünden.

During his studies at the University of Zurich, Michael Isenring worked, amongst other things, as an assistant at the Department of Geography. In the Department of Human Geography, as part of the national research programme NCCR North-South Project "Livelihood Options and Globalisation", he assisted the Project Coordinator in the Project Management. In the Remote Sensing Department he worked on the archive and was responsible for the development of an internal database. He also gave various tutorials.
